

Knowledge Production in Times of Flight and War.
Developing Common Grounds for Research in/on Syria

<https://www.know-war.net/>

Researching War : Common Grounds for Knowledge Production in/on Syria

Public Discussion

Friday, 8th of November, 5 pm

C3 (Alois Wagner-Saal), Sensengasse 3, 1090 Wien

The war in Syria has resulted in the largest population exodus in recent global history. While the war continues, reconstruction efforts and debates around post-war (dis)orders are well under way. The international research project KnowWar critically examines the power nexus between war, warfare, flight, humanitarian programs, (forced) repatriation, and reconstruction in Syria and its repercussions in Lebanon. Based on that, it will work out alternatives to the status quo and the way researches in conflict and war zones are conducted. Main questions are: What are alternatives? In what way are transformative research methodologies and epistemologies informed by feminist and decolonial approaches?

Discussants:

Kassem Sabbah,
Mousawat Organisation

Rawya Mousa,
Mousawat Organisation

Rabie Nasser,
Syrian Center for Policy Research

Nisrin H.,
Gender Consultant for Women Now for Development

Lena Meari,
Institute of Women's Studies, Birzeit University

Linda Tabar,
Center for Development Studies, Birzeit University

Raed Eshnaiwer,
Center for Development Studies, Birzeit University

Helmut Krieger,
Department of Development Studies, University of Vienna

Klaudia Wieser,
Department of Social and Cultural Anthropology, University of Vienna